As an international team of no more than six (average four) you'll develop more precise, more natural and more powerful English.

Content

At Canning, we don't follow a pre-defined course programme. Our course programme is you. When you start the course, you'll brief us about the biggest challenges you face in English – presenting sales figures to your boss, explaining technical details to your client, holding a meeting via video conferencing – and we'll make sure you face these challenges every day. Every participant has their own needs, but group courses often include ...

- Social English: ice-breaking, small talk, networking.
- Meetings: solve problems, make suggestions and convince others.
- Phone calls, conference calls and video conferencing: follow the discussion and communicate clearly, persuasively and memorably.
- Negotiations: get to win-win solutions with your clients, suppliers or colleagues.
- Intensive listening practice: capturing the "big picture" and the details of high-speed conversations between native and non-native speakers with a range of accents.
- Taking control of conversations: influence the pace and directions of a conversation so that you have time to understand and contribute.
- Grammar: it doesn't have to be boring! We'll give you the grammar you need to communicate clearly and sound impressive.
- Pronunciation: learn the natural sounds, rhythms and contractions of spoken English.

Methods

Your time is precious. We structure Canning courses so that you spend every moment improving your ability to speak or to listen. We constantly simulate the English-speaking environment that you work in, so that you're constantly practising the English you need – not the language of a textbook. We listen to you very, very carefully; we understand what is stopping you from communicating effectively in English; and then we give you the language you need to succeed.

Trainers

We don't recruit English teachers. We recruit multilingual professionals from the business world and train them to teach English. Your trainer on our English for Business courses will be a native-English speaker and understands the pressure of your working life and your struggle with the English language.
